Open agenda:

Come and experience a creative coaching environment. This summit will allow participants to engage in free-form discussions surrounding the summit theme. Based on "Open Space Technology" the program will be decided by participants themselves. The process is designed to facilitate a stimulating opportunity for each person to be fully engaged in the way they want.

After the topics are determined as part of the Open Space process, participants can engage in the conversations of their choice. It's all in the name of expanding our minds, sharing our views and exploring our passions in a structured and thought provoking process that guides participants to great results.

The 2013 Theme is "Building the Coaching Connection."

Within that theme, the summit will draw out the wisdom and energy in the room to answer the questions and issues that participants identify.
